As the Hon. Mr. WRITTALL said, at the opening of his speech in the Council on Tuesday, there was undoubtedly room for surprise at his objecting to the tax which is raised in the Colony upon prepared opium. This has always been considered a perfectly fair source of revenue, and so fair from its being objected to, the complaint hitherto has generally been that a sufficient amount was was obtained in Singapore. Baker has accomplished even more than was ordering a levy of ten thousand warriors. A large body of these attacked the Pasha, who Li.-My vulgar same is Li, your great ve. had only a hundred odd Egyptian troops with him. These men were all greatly fatigued with the long journey into the interior, and Li.-Your great venerable Sir will pardon some of them were suffering from the poisoned bunting merchants. This chastisement cleared the whole country about Gondokoro and down towards Rewinka's territory. After a period of renose, which was mperatively needed, Baker commenced systematically to organise the districts which were in his possession. He made Fatiko the chief lown of the new territory, and appointed superintendents at the other stations. Before long the natives settled down wonderfully well under the new Government, and appeared exceedingly satisfied with the safety and quiet which it afforded. The light tribute exacted of a basket of bread and a bundle of grass per inouth for each but was paid with alacrity and regularity; and when Fir Samuel went finally. northwards, having established the reinforcements sent him along the annexed region, he negroes at Faliko gave bist the most vociferous farewells, calling him "father" and "master," and looking upon him as their future protector. The term of the contract signed by Sir Samuel Baker and by the English engineers with the Khedive has now expired, and, having made all arrangements, the Pasha embarked at Gondokoro in one of the steamers brought up country by the expedition, Another ressel of the some model has been successfully corried as far as Gondokoro, and as soon as camel transport can be obtained it may be taken to the lakes, and set affeat there. was coming on, but the wholesuburb was search-The third of the three iron vessels sent up in pieces with the same object lies yet at Khartonm, the difficulties of transport having proved Next to Fatika the chief station of the new

Thus much for the political portion of the lidings brought by the gallant Pasha. I have further a most important geographical discovery to communicate—one which cannot fail. I think, to astonud many scientific men in England. It is declared as an ascertained fact by the returning party that Lakes Tanganyika and Albert Nyanza are proved to be one and the same water. The length of this magfificent inland sea, thus, for the first time made known to mankind, is not less than seven hundred miles, and it is announced as positive that a vessel can be hunched above Murchison's Falls, at the head of the Nyanza, and sail away to Ujiji, or lower, through ten degrees of

The evident object of the parties engaged in it had been to accomplish everything and pescape to America before the first forged bill became due, and in this they very nearly succeeded. It would be shown that all the prisoners used false names, that they were continually meeting and doing business together, and that they had end! been numeriated in one way or other in matters connected with the forgery, Auttin Bidwell having opened the banking account through which the hills passed, and actually transmitted them from Birmingham; George Bidwell and George MacDonnell having ordered the instruments for the preparation of the bills, and Noyes having transacted a good deal of the financial business connected with Horton's account, the changing of the money, and the purchase of American bonds. The Deputy-Recorder concluded by expressing an opinion that it would be the duty of the Grand Jury to return true bills against the prisoners, and by stating that if they found any difficulty with the evidence, either he or Mr. Avery, the Clerk of Arraigns, would be ready to assist them. Later in the day, Mr. Metcalfe, Q.C., (with whom was Mr. Moody), applied on the part of the prisoner Austin Bidwell that in the event of a true bill being found, the trial should be postponed until the next sessions. One morning last May, a gentleman went from Quebec to Montreal, and, being in the latter city, stepped into a shop to buy a hat. This gentleman wass friend of the family MOHAIR and GRENADINE COSTUMES who had lost the child, and whose name was Richard. He observed, in ontoning the shop, that the keeper's name was Richmond. This trifling and partial coincidence would have made no impression, had he not directly after noticed a surprising resemblance between Richmond, the batter, and the Richard family of Quebec. Going home to his lodgings, he wrote the adventure to his mother, who lives in that town, and after posting the letter, felt strongly moved to return and oross question Richmond touching bie origin. This was done, and to some purpose, for Richmond declared that he had been reared from infancy by an Indian woman whom he had been taught to regard as mother. She had always been kind to im, but never, until lying on her death-bod, confessed the fact that she had stolen him from his parents' door when an infant, had brought bim to the forest among kerred brethren, and raised bim for her own. ST. OLAF'S FOUNTAIN. Like a hall of blood-red fire Sinks the sun o'er forcets sleeping. Won ironsly in splendour steeping Gluciers far with cloud-c pt spire. Leaning on his stalwart steed, Stands King Olaf, and and weary; Loth to view the ruins dreary. Whereon flames exulting feed Still and sultry is the night-Not a rustle in the rushes. ... Not a breeze to stir the bushes With its fugitive delight. Dry and thirsty lies the land : Where crewhile the cooling ourrent Traced its courses, gay and errant, Glimmers now the nun-bleached sand. Far and near resounds the air With the low of homeless cattle: O'er the bloody field of buttle Throws the sun its lurid glare, From below, a muffled ring, Like the fur, unceasing direcs Of the faintly murmuring surges, From his musing wakes the King. And a vast and weary throng— Peasants, armed with soythes, and brawny Spearmen, clad in wolf-skins towny-Slowly wind the hills along. Spoke a warrior grave and hoar To the King, his voice uplifted : "Tossed and vanquished, we have drifted, Stintly King, unto thy shore. "We have cried to Thor and Frey; But our Gods no more are near us. Wrathful Thor no more will hear us; Give us water ere wordie! " We have beard that Christ the White Hath a balm for each disaster. We will worship Him, O muster, Who our armies put to flight." Then with holy zeal aglow. With the power of strong believing. Swift the King, his sword upheaving, Smote the barren mountain's brow. Into splinters sprang the sword: And the mountain's ancient giant R. used its echoes, fierce, defiant, As if weeking Christ the Lord. Ab! but from the earth's deep breast Came no bubbling fountain bursting, And the barren land lay thirsting, With its beary doom oppressed. Rose a peasant then, and said. Chuckling with a numing, low laugh; " Now we know, forsoith, King Olaf. Still is uncient Thor not Jend." Fierce the royal warriors frowned. in high the wretch i" they shouted wildly. But the King rebuked them mildly. Low he knelt upon the ground. Grave and silent stood the throng. While he prayed with great contrition "Lord, O save them from perdition; I am weak, but thou art strong!" And his tears fell hot and fast ; Waked to life the barren mountain. Upward sprang a bubbling fountain, Rushing o'er the sun-blosched waste, Now is sheathed King Olaf's sword; But the cross his zeal bath planted In our land stands bright, undangted. Gleaming over date and fjord, And his fountain pure and clear Mid the drooping alder bushes Still with joyous cadence gushes, Fresh, unchanged, from year to year, - Atlantic Monthly.

ANECDOTE OF MENDELSSOHN. On one occasion of Mendelssohn being in Switzerland, he and Sir Michael met at the church of Friburg, in which building the organ is of such world wide celebrity that few persons—especially those who lay claim to any musical taste-leave the town without going to hear it. At the time referred to ! the custodian was somewhat of a bear, and most determinedly refused, either for love or money, to permit any stranger to place his fingers upon the keys, although he himself had not the slightest pretension to the designation of an organist; and so far from showing the capabilities of the justrument induced very many to go away under the impression that they had been "sold," and that all "Murray" and other guide books had stated was nothing better than "a delusion and a snare." Mendelssohn was resolved, by hook or by crook, to ascertain what the Friburg organ was, made of. For this purpose he drew the custodian out, working upon his weak points of characterfor the old man really loved the organ as if it had been his child-but as to getting his consent to touch it, that seemed to be beyond the probability of realisation. Every one who ever had the good fortune to be acquainted with Mendelssohn must have been sitracted by his winning manners, his courteous bearing, and his manifestation of decided character. Whether be won upon the old man by any of these peculiarities of his "native worth" in particular, or by their combination, can only be inferred. Suffice it to say that after long parley he was permitted to try one range of keys. One hand he employed at first, quietly using the other in drawing the stops, as if to test the variety of their quality, and when be had thus got out us many as seemed applicable for his purpose he made a dash, which completely staggered the old man, and began to play as he alone could play.
